Harold

Things appear to be a bit quieter on the conspiracy front (or back?) this past week or so, and I think probably will remain subdued during this, our Lum 'n Abner presidential campaign.

Here's Argosy's latest entry, part one anyhow, and at least it's not an extension of the Castro=did=it matrix being painted on the window these days. (You can see through it, but the image is taken in.)

Ford's selection of Robert Dole broke the daisy chain, didn't it? Up to that point, we had Ford of the Warren Commission, Rockefeller of the redundant Rockefeller Commission, Reagan of the same redundancy, Schweiker of the Church Committee, Mondale of the Church Committee and, up to the last minute, I believe, Howard Baker of the Church Committee. Quite a set from the land of never=never. How does Carter fit in?

Best to you and Lil
